Chairman Pai and Commissioners,

Along with 23,672,944 million other Americans who have commented to the FCC, I do not want the 2015 Net Neutrality decision repealed. Everyone should have equal access to the internet. Repealing Net Neutrality will be another corporate power grab that will hurt the American people. Higher costs for internet access and censorship of the news and websites that reflect the corporation's political agendas will surely follow. Sounds like a loss of freedom to me.

The American people will gain nothing from a repeal of Net Neutrality. What will you gain?

Sincerely,

Jo Newsad
